

Official Statement Regarding Temporary Removal of Our Products from MCS Certification Database

Xiamen Fasten Solar Technology Co., Ltd.

Dear Valued Customers and Partners,

We are writing to inform you that some of our solar mounting system products have been temporarily delisted from the MCS (Microgeneration Certification Scheme) due to updates in the MCS standard. We sincerely apologize for any inconvenience caused and would like to provide the following clarification and updates:

I. Reason for Removal

MCS published an updated standard MCS 012 version 3.0. Although our existing certification complies with the previous standard, BRE believes that our current certification remains under the legacy single-component, it temporarily falls short of the new systemic requirements, necessitating the temporary delisting of our products.

We are strongly opposed to this action, as our mounting systems remain unchanged and have been thoroughly tested in accordance with MCS rules and regulations. Furthermore, our mandatory factory inspections and audits are entirely up to date.

II. Proactive Efforts and Current Progress

Over the past two years, we have prioritized compliance with the updated standards and dedicated significant resources to systemic certification upgrades, including:

- Submitting full technical documentation to BRE (Building Research Establishment), the UK certification body, to expedite review processes of existing certificate.

- Maintaining close communication with BRE seeking to add other systems that meet the standards to the certificate.

We are striving to complete certification updates at the earliest opportunity to reinstate our products on the inventory.

III. Commitments and Next Steps

We fully acknowledge the potential impact of this situation on your projects and assure you of the following measures to mitigate disruptions:

- Interim solutions and technical support will be offered to clients with urgent needs;
- Transparent updates on certification progress will be provided regularly.

Product safety, reliability and global compliance remain our utmost priorities, and remains dedicated to independent external testing. We fully support the MCS Standards. We deeply appreciate your continued trust and partnership. For further inquiries, please contact:
